

Here's an invitation to share an unusual evening reminiscent of going back in time. It's a popular way of bringing good people, great music, wonderful food and fantastic art together in the warmest of atmospheres known as The Warehouse.

For those who are not familiar with the house concert format, it kinda' goes like this:
Bring a covered dish to share as this is heart of the gathering while the performance is the soul.
BYOB. Bring a Chair or Blanket, Covered Dish, Relax, Kick Back and Enjoy!

Meet n' Greet: 7:00pm – 7:30pm

Let's eat: 7:30pm – 8:30pm

Music: 8:30pm – 11:00pm

NOW: About the Warehouse

Sarah Frisbey's home sits alongside an abandoned and aged spur of rusty railroad track near downtown Hickory. It's old and was built in the late 1800s or early 1900s. The hardwood floors are original, with a patina that only old age can master. The massive, exposed beams have been lovingly cared for and restored. Skylights were added and cast a diffused light that warms. The brick walls are original and are enhanced by the wooden floors and overhead beams.

Brickwork inside a home is unusual, but so is Frisbey's home – all 10,000 square feet of it. She not only lives there, but she utilizes all 5,000 square feet and a big part of the other half, though that half remains unfinished. And that's not all. Wait until you see the ever-changing art display from area artists. Sarah's inspiration from The Warehouse is to bring the community together for the betterment of the area, musicians, and artists!

Tickets are $15.00 per person

Not bad for sharing an evening of live entertainment, eating, art, & being together with old friends & new!

This Event Will Have Limited Seating and Advance Reservations are Required.
Once the tickets are sold out a waiting list will offer a chance to attend if someone cancels.

Reservations at SarahFrisbey@yahoo.com or call 828-217-2581

For your convenience, you can purchase tickets in advance with M/C or Visa.
Just add that info when making reservations.

The Warehouse, 18 2nd Street SE, Hickory, NC

Click Here for Directions